Inclusive & Balanced

In order to build an inclusive and balanced curriculum that both answers the need for integration and the preservation of the Vietnamese ethos, our Vietnam Hoc Team is assembling learning resources from our own literature as well as from foreign authors with similar socio-cultural background to evaluate possibilities and resources needed for a new curriculum that is both useful for the local teaching professionals as well as their foreign counterparts.

Keywords

The Human Development Index (HDI) is a measure of average achievement in key dimensions of human development such as a long and healthy life, being knowledgeable and enjoying a decent standard of living. Therefore, the education sector needs to integrate a curriculum that allows young professionals to understand not only the present working environment of today's Vietnam, but also the challenges lying ahead with more global competition arising from the region.

Why Ethics Matters?

- Philosophy, Faith and Spirituality or Religions are matters that are important for the development of learners as a child and a future parent, but also as a future citizen of the World.
- Ethics is a part of the belief system of a culture.
- Applied ethics across sectors are developed through the codes of conducts or codes of ethics by organizations according to their own culture.
- Preserving one's own culture keep us strong to face challenges of a multi-faceted world.

Vietnamese Authors in the world

Keywords

At the crossroad of future choices, we are all concerned of what the future may bring to mankind with all destructions and explosions of violence and hatred going around.

The Vietnam Hoc Collection Vietnamese Authors in World Literature is an attempt to look into global issues from a Vietnamese perspective.

Themes include interpretations on change, responsible leadership and sustainable development and the importance of living in peace and harmony with each other.
